

THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT

Copyright, 1910, by The Times-Dispatch, Richmond, Va.

When Jack arrived in town yesterday he found a great stack of letters, from hundreds of his friends who had been busy calling on the fifty-six progressive merchants, who contributed in some way to "the House that Jack Built".

Mrs. Jack didn't like it a bit because Jack had to stay at the office until rather late in order to make up a list of the thirty-three fortunate contestants who were correct in listing the fifty-six firms.

At last the task was accomplished however, and as promised by the Times-Dispatch checks have been mailed to each person in the following list selected by Jack.
